VIRGINIA FAIR HOUSING LAW
§ 36-96.1.B

It is the policy of the Commonwealth of Virginia to provide for fair housing throughout the Commonwealth, to all its citizens, regardless of:

- race,
- color,
- religion,
- national origin,
- sex,
- elderliness,
- familial status, or
- handicap,

and to that end to prohibit discriminatory practices with respect to residential housing by any person or group of persons, in order that the peace, health, safety, prosperity, and general welfare of all the inhabitants of the Commonwealth may be protected and insured. This law shall be deemed an exercise of the police power of the Commonwealth of Virginia for the protection of the people of the Commonwealth.

WHAT IS A "PROTECTED CLASS"?
The term "protected class" is an anti-discrimination term that is used in state and federal law. It refers to a group of people who share a common characteristic and need protection from discrimination and harassment.

UNLAWFUL DISCRIMINATORY HOUSING PRACTICES:
- To refuse to rent, sell or negotiate, or otherwise make a dwelling unavailable;
- To discriminate in the terms or conditions of a rental or sale, or in the provision of services or facilities connected to the rental or sale;
- To make, print, or publish a discriminatory statement or advertisement related to the sale or rental of a dwelling;
- To misrepresent the availability of a dwelling;
- To refuse to make a reasonable accommodation for a person with a disability, or to refuse to permit a person with a disability to make a reasonable modification.

As a good housing practice, housing providers should set objective criteria to screen ALL applicants fairly.

The goal of the Fair Housing Law is to afford every qualified individual housing choices where there is equal access to, and equity in the use and enjoyment of, a dwelling or property.

Timely Filing of Complaints
A complaint must be received by the Fair Housing Office in writing within one year after the alleged discriminatory housing practice occurred or ended.

Homeowners Insurance: Redlining: The law prohibits the practice of refusing to do business with certain communities due to their racial and ethnic make-up.

Appraisals: Real estate appraisers must not consider race, color, religion, national origin, sex, elderliness, familial status, or handicap of the residents of the property or neighborhood when appraising residential property.
