WE ARE BACK!

After a short hiatus, Blueprints is finally back and with a whole new redesigned look and feel. This issue is chock full of new important information as well as some general information about DPOR and the Board of Contractors to re-familiarize you all with what we are all about. We here at the Board of Contractors hope you enjoy this new issue of BLUEPRINTS!

So... what exactly is DPOR?

The Department of Professional and Occupational Regulations is an umbrella agency for 18 policy boards— comprised of practitioners and citizens appointed by the governor— responsible for regulating professions and occupations, as determined by the General Assembly. Our 200 employees serve more than 300,000 individuals and businesses across 167 license types, ranging from architects and contractors to cosmetologists and professional wrestlers.

DPOR issues professional credentials-licenses, certificate, or registrations-in-the least intrusive, least burdensome, and most efficient way. The goal is to ensure the minimum competency necessary to practice without harming the public, not to enhance professional stature or limit competition by keeping newcomers out. Policy boards determine the minimum standards necessary to enter a profession, and qualify applicants based on a combination of education, experience and examination. DPOR also enforces standards of professional conduct. The agency investigates reports of regulatory violations and seeks to obtain compliance with the law or, when necessary, to discipline the licensee. Regulatory board sanctions against licensees include fines, probationary terms, suspension or license revocation.

DO YOU WANT TO BE ON THE BOARD FOR CONTRACTORS?

Serving the Commonwealth of Virginia on a board or commission is both an honor and a privilege. Public service, however, is not for everyone. Individuals applying for a board or commission should be aware of the following:

- ◇ As expected in an open and democratic government, the activities of boards and commissions are subject to public and press scrutiny.
- ◇ Applicants who are selected by the Governor to serve will be required to complete a financial disclosure statement as a condition of serving on the board or commission.
- ◇ Unless otherwise specified by law, most boards and commissions meet quarterly each year. However, some boards may meet more frequently due to the responsibilities and functions of the board.

Service on boards and commissions is generally voluntary, and unless otherwise specified by law, members of boards and commissions are not paid a stipend. Members of boards and commissions are sometimes reimbursed for their expenses. The online application system will allow you to submit your own application or provide nominations for boards and commissions. We would like for all service-minded Virginians to consider submitting their application or recommending others for consideration to serve in these positions.

The majority of board/commission seats come due on June 30 each year. While applications are taken year round, we strongly recommend having your application submitted online by March 15 to be fully considered for the upcoming round of appointments.

To apply online visit: <https://commonwealth.virginia.gov/va-government/gubernatorial-appointments/>

Reporting Changes Is Important

Keeping the board up-to-date on any address changes or changes in certain personnel ensures that your license will remain in compliance with the regulations—and just might keep you from being disciplined by the board..

Missed your renewal notice because you changed your address?

Changed corporate officers, LLC managers or partners?

Have a Qualified Individual (QI), Designated Employee (DE), or Responsible Manager leave your company?

Changes such as these must be reported to the Board for Contractors in order to keep your license current and avoid possible disciplinary action for failure to report a required change. That's right, it is a violation of the regulations to fail to report a change of address or a personnel change involving your QI, RM or DE.

Reporting your address change just makes good sense. All correspondence sent by the board goes to the address you provided on your application. Most mail from the board is not forwarded, including renewal notices. Additionally, failure to receive correspondence from the board, when you have failed to report an address change, does not relieve you of your obligation to respond to the correspondence or take any action requested by the board.

If your QI leaves your company, you have 45 days to find a replacement and notify the board of that change. If your QI has informed the board that they are no longer employed by you and you have not made the change as required in the regulations, you may be subject to disciplinary action and you will likely have that specialty removed.

Changes to the DE must be done within 90 days, as well as changes in corporate officers or other members of Responsible Management.

Forms for reporting address changes and personnel changes may be found on our website, or can be emailed or faxed to you upon request. Changes in QI and DE require a fee in addition to the form. Address changes and changes to officers or Responsible Management will be made free of charge.

Please keep the board informed of any changes.

Do I meet the DEFINITION of a Contractor?

contractor

DEFINITION in the Law § 54.1-1100

Any person, that for a fixed price, commission fee, or percentage undertakes to bid upon, or accept, orders or contracts for performing, managing, or superintending in whole or in part, the construction, removal repair or improvement of any building or structure permanently annexed to real property owned, controlled, or leased by him or another person or any other improvements to such real property .

SIMPLER DEFINITION

In simpler terms– if you're bidding, managing or performing construction work (permanently affixed) and you're being compensated for it, you need a license.

BUT WHAT ABOUT $$?

In order to be a contractor any job you do must be a minimum of $1000 for the entire project. However trade work (PLB, ELE, etc.) landscape irrigation work, and water well work have no minimum exemption.

What Kind of Contractor License do I need?

So by now you have probably heard that there are three different contractor licenses: A, B and C. Depending on the kind of work being done, you, as a contractor, fall under breadth of one of these licenses. Now before we get into detail about what these different contractor licenses entail, know that a contractor's license can only be given to a COMPANY not an INDIVIDUAL.

A few different company types are: Sole Proprietorship, Limited Liability Company (LLC), Incorporation (Inc.), and Corporation (Corp.). Also it is very important to select the right class of license for the amount of work your company performs. If your company exceeds the limit set by the class your company will be in violation of the regulations. This violation could possibly lead to disciplinary action against the license holder.

CLASS C:

Class C is the lowest level of contractor's license. A Class C license is restricted to contracts/projects that are less than $10,000, with the total amount of all contracts/projects performed in a twelve month period remaining below $150,000.

CLASS B:

Class B is the next level up for contractor's license. A Class B license is restricted to contracts/projects that are less than $120,000, with the total amount of all contracts/projects performed in a twelve month period remaining below $750,000.

CLASS A:

Class A is the highest level for contractor's license. A Class A license has no restrictions or limitations on contract size.

LICENSING FAQs: All the questions you ever needed answered!

Q. WHEN SHOULD I EXPECT TO GET MY RENEWAL NOTICE IN THE MAIL?

A. Renewal notices are mailed to licensees and certificate holders approximately 45 days prior to the expiration date of the license or certificate. These notices are mailed to the address on file with the board, so it is important to keep the board up-to-date with regard to any address changes. Renewal notices are only mailed once, and not receiving a notice does not relieve you of the obligation to renew. If you do not receive your notice on the first day of the month your license or certificate expires, call the licensing staff at (804) 367-8511 for instructions on how to renew without the notice.

Q. DO I HAVE TO TAKE THE SAME CONTINUING EDUCATION COURSE I TOOK THE LAST TIME?

A. Current continuing education requirements for tradesman and other individual licenses/ certificate holders only mandate that you take a course approved by the board for the specialty you hold on your license. If you would like to take the same course again, there is nothing prohibiting you from doing so. But you must take your continuing education course within each licensing cycle. There is a list of board-approved education providers available on our website. Several of the providers offer online courses and, as more and more providers and courses are approved, the list of subject matter will expand.

Q. TRIED TO RENEW ONLINE, BUT IT WOULDN'T LET ME. WHY?

A. There are a number of reasons that a licensee or certificate holder is not able to renew online. The most common one is not putting down an e-mail address on the initial application. The e-mail address that the applicant puts down on their application is what is entered into our system. If no e-mail address is recorded then it becomes a bit more difficult to renew online. If you run into this problem, or you just forgot the e-mail you originally applied with go to the Online Services page and in the bottom left corner there will be a link to create a new online profile. The system will then mail you a temporary username and password.

Q. HOW DO I KNOW IF I AM WORKING OUTSIDE OF MY SPECIALTY?

A. The Board for Contractors Regulations has a list of specialties and classifications along with a definition of the work that is permitted to be performed by contractors holding those specialties. Additionally, in those areas where the specific work you are performing cannot be found in the regulations, you should contact the licensing staff for assistance. If the work you are going to perform requires you to obtain a building permit, the staff of your local building official's office can help you determine the specialty required for your license.

Q. DOES MY COMPANY HAVE TO BE LICENSED IF WE ARE JUST A SUBCONTRACTOR?

A. YES! There is no differentiation between prime contractors and subcontractors with licensing requirements. Subcontractors must hold their own license in the appropriate class and specialty for the work they are going to perform. Contractors who hire unlicensed or improperly licensed subcontractors are in violation of the board's regulations and subject to disciplinary action. It is the responsibility of prime contractors to ensure that their subs hold the right type of license for the work they are providing. Any questions on the licensing status of a contractor, tradesman or certificate holder, should be directed to the board's licensing staff at (804) 367-8511.

Q. DOES A LICENSED TRADESMAN OR INDIVIDUAL CERTIFICATE HOLDER HAVE TO BE ON THE JOB SITE?

A. There is no requirement in the regulations that a licensed tradesman (plumbing, electrical, HVAC, gas-fitting) be on the job site at all times. It is a violation of the regulations, however, for a contractor to fail to provide adequate supervision to helpers or laborers assisting licensed tradesmen. For Certified Elevator Mechanics and Certified Water Well System Providers, the rules are a little different. Current statutes require that only Certified Elevator Mechanics perform work on elevators, escalators or related conveyances, and that a Certified Water Well System Provider be on the job site at all times when working on water wells or water well systems.

DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS

The Board for Contractors licenses or certifies contractors, tradesmen, backflow prevention device workers, water well system providers, elevator mechanics, residential building energy analysts, and accessibility mechanics. If a complaint is filed against a licensee who is subject to the laws and regulations of the board, the complaint is reviewed by DPOR’s Compliance and Investigations Division to determine if a violation of these laws or regulations may have occurred. If there is probable cause of a violation, an investigation is initiated. If the investigation reveals that one or more violations may have occurred, the licensee or certificate holder receives notice to appear at an informal fact-finding (IFF) conference to address these alleged violations.

In certain cases, the licensee or certificate holder is offered an opportunity to participate in Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR), which may result in voluntary settlement terms with the complainant to avoid disciplinary action by the board. In some cases, the licensee or certificate holder may be offered a pre-IFF Consent Order, an agreement with the board consisting of specific violations and sanctions. ADR and pre-IFF Consent Orders eliminate the time and expense associated with conducting an IFF.

If an IFF is held, a recommendation from the IFF hearing officer, consisting of proposed violations and sanctions, is submitted to the board for consideration at its next meeting. The board can take the following disciplinary actions against a licensee or certificate holder: assess a monetary penalty; suspend or revoke a license; place the licensee or certificate holder on probation; require additional education; require the Designated Employee to retake the examination; or deny renewal. A licensee or certificate holder can continue to practice throughout the disciplinary process until the board either revokes or suspends the license or certificate.
